

Dear Mr. Zuckerberg,

It has come to my attention that your racketeering outfit has become common knowledge. I have been building a civil case against you for quite some time now, not limited to intellectual property infringement, civil racketeering, and defamation. It seems it would be much easier for you to settle this out of court than to maintain your crumbling racketeering empire. Rest assured I am prepared to take you to court, and I retain my right to a jury, by the 7th Amendment.

The evidence against you is quite substantiated (<http://truthorfight.org/news>) and potentially damning to not only your personal character, but the character of your business. I'm sure your investors would prefer to handle this quietly than to drag everything out as nonchalantly and prominently as you seem to prefer. This will be your only warning and opportunity to settle with me out of court. The time for a fist fight has passed-- the challenge was issued over two years ago. Kindly mail my check to the PO Box below.
